

Message from ICCN 2015 Organizing Committee

On behalf of the Technical Programme Committee, I welcome you to the ICCN 2015 – IOARP International Conference on Communication and Networks. It is a great pleasure to hold ICCN 2015 here in London on 18-19 December 2015.

ICCN aims to bring together scientists, researchers, engineers, physicists, applied mathematicians and practitioners to discuss fundamental advances, current state of the technology, outcomes of ongoing research, and emerging issues in the domains of communication and networks. At ICCN, we are particularly interested in cutting-edge communication and networks research, converging with domains such as sociology & psychology, health & medical sciences, pedagogical & library sciences, geological & astronomical sciences, business & management, tourism & transport, law & criminology, and security & strategy. In ICCN 2015, authors have submitted their contributions in the form of theoretical and empirical papers employing qualitative, quantitative and critical methods.

We are very excited to share that authors from around the world have shown their interest in the conference. This year, we are expecting more than 50 delegates from industry and academia to attend the ICCN 2015.

The two day event comprises of tutorials sessions, keynote speeches, author presentations, a PhD forum, award ceremony, a complementary London Riverboat trip, and various opportunities of socialising during luncheons and coffee breaks.

An international conference of this size and diversity requires support of many people and organizations. I would like to take this opportunity to thank our authors, participants, keynote speakers, tutorial organizer, session chairs, reviewers, TPC members, our volunteers, the IOARP staff, and our consultants FCS UK for their support. I would also like to extend my appreciation to our sponsors Cambridge Regional College UK and our supporters Queen Mary University of London in organizing ICCN 2015.

Once again, we would like to extend our warm welcome to all the participants. We hope you have a nice time at ICCN 2015 and we look forward to welcoming you again at the ICCN 2016 here in London, United Kingdom.

ICCN 2015 Organizing Committee